IF YOU ARE NEW TO MSIA:

Soul Transcendence

The purpose of the Movement of Spiritual Inner Awareness (MSIA) is to teach Soul Transcendence, which is becoming aware of yourself as a Soul and as one with God, not as a theory but as a living reality. Your Soul is who you truly are; it is more than your body, your thoughts, or your feelings. It is the highest aspect of yourself, where you and God are one.

MSIA provides a variety of tools and techniques that allow you to experience your Soul and enhance your awareness of God.

Equally important, MSIA presents an approach that focuses on incorporating spirituality into your everyday life. We call this "practical spirituality." It allows you to attune more deeply to your Soul and to increasingly live from that awareness.

In MSIA, we respect any approach that encourages people on their path home to God. We don't claim to have the only way, but we do have a way that is assisting thousands of people to do this while experiencing greater health, happiness, abundance, and joy.

The foundation of MSIA is loving, and it is in that spirit that we invite you to participate with us in whatever way works for you.

If you would like more information about MSIA, or to further explore its teachings, please visit our website at www.msia.org or contact us at: 800/ 899-2665 or servicedesk@msia.org

AWAKENING THE CHRIST
 WITHIN

*(Originally printed in The Movement newspaper in December, 1978.)*

At this time of Christmas there is, perhaps, a greater surge of energy as more people attune themselves consciously to the love that Jesus exemplified. And it's easy to see those who are riding the upward flow of the Light they're the ones who are so joyful and so filled with the love and brotherhood the Christmas season symbolizes.

Each year we celebrate the birth of Jesus the Christ, and it's nice, at this time of year, to take the time to reflect what Jesus' birth and life really mean to us.

Jesus' life is very significant to all of us, although his message was extremely simple. Before the birth of Jesus, the earth was on a pattern of descending energy. The energy of creation was still going out, away from the supreme source. Through his life, and through his physical death, Jesus turned that energy and moved to the ascending energy-the power flowing back towards the God-head, toward life and Light. He brought to all mankind the experience of the Beloved and the key to eternal life.

The power of the Christ is the ascending energy. Those who know Christ consciousness are on the upward flow of energy; they are awakening to the Christ, to the power of the Light and Sound, to the greater God of all life. Their experience of the Christ is direct and secure. There is no need for intermediaries-no priests, no mediums, no masters are necessary. No one who is dealing with Christ consciousness is expressing on a downward energy. That cannot be; it's a contradiction in terms.

At this time of Christmas there is, perhaps, a greater surge of energy as more people attune themselves consciously to the love that Jesus exemplified. And it's easy to see those who are riding the upward flow of the Light they're the ones who are so joyful and so filled with the love and brotherhood the Christmas season symbolizes. The people for whom the Christmas season is "blah" or depressing may be living on a downward energy pattern. It really is time to awaken more to the love within-not only at Christmas, but every day of the year.

The magic of Christmas rests with the attitude. When you catch the vision of Christ consciousness, then your attitude becomes one of joy and love and peace and upliftment. You feel those qualities come alive within you, and then as you express them more in every action, relationship, and situation in which you find yourself, you awaken even more to the Christ within.

To speak of the Christ is to speak of the Beloved. If we speak of a love or a lover, we separate ourselves from that other form. And that separation is illusion, for ultimately you are one with all things. You are one with God. That is the message of the Christ today, just as it was two thousand years ago. Jesus said, "He that seeth me seeth him that sent me." (John 12:45) And he also said, "The Father and I are one." (John 10:30) Therefore, there can only be one form present. That form is God, who dwells within you, waiting to be awakened and freed from the bonds of the earth.

The Christ consciousness is an ongoing Spirit. It is always present. When Jesus was about to be taken to his crucifixion, he spoke to the disciples and told them that, although they were not to go with him at that moment, he would leave with them a comforter, a witness, that was called the Holy Spirit, which would reveal to them all things and give to them the memory of what he had taught. The Holy Spirit is wholly Spirit, entirely Spirit. It is a complete energy form, not corrupted by any lower level of consciousness. It is pure. It is of the positive realms of pure Spirit; it is of God. We cannot know the Holy Spirit on any level of our earthly senses. We cannot perceive it physically, emotionally, mentally, subconsciously, or unconsciously. It comes only to that pure part of us which is the Soul, that which can hold the office of the Christ.

When that Spirit that is holy touches to your Soul, that Christ consciousness within you begins to awaken. Then it is the Christ within you that awakens, also, to the Christ within others. Two thousand years ago, those who knew Jesus the Christ knew him because their own Christ consciousness was awakened. And those - who recognize the presence of the Christ today do so because the Christ within them is awakened.

The consciousness of the Christ is within everyone, but it is not manifested equally. Some are more awakened to its reality than others. In few is that pure consciousness fully awake. In many it is partially awake, and in many more, still asleep.

Was the Christ consciousness present prior to the time of Jesus? Of course, it must have been. It is that spark of God, that energy that keeps us all alive, that keeps us all going even when we want to die and think we're going to and are afraid we really are. It's life. It's God. There were a lot of people walking around, knowing that spark of God inside, before Jesus came and manifested it in the great glory that he expressed. But that he fulfilled that promise more completely than anyone had before cannot be denied. And in bringing the power of the Holy Spirit into the earth's force field and in tuning to the ascending energy of Spirit, he certainly used the power of the Christ in a way greater than it had been used before.

Jesus also stopped the Messianic delusion that was prevalent at that time. The Jews had expected a Messiah to appear for centuries, and there was much uproar about who it was and how he would manifest, etc. Jesus appeared on the scene and, in effect, said, "You don't have to look any longer." The Messiah consciousness ended with his form. And the Christ awakening began in all forms. How do you awaken to the Christ? Easy ... love your neighbor as yourself... or better than yourself, if you're one that rips yourself emotionally or confuses yourself mentally or creates illness in your physical body. It's when you let go of all those levels that you begin to discover the inner Christ. When you have exhausted those levels of the body, emotions, mind, subconscious, and unconscious, you begin to find that you are dwelling in the consciousness of the Christ. When you see the Christ within you. you will excuse all the other levels and forgive yourself all things. The vision of the Beloved will allow you to transfer your energy into the positive, into the upward flow of Spirit, and you will resurrect into the Christ consciousness.

You don't have to die to discover the Christ. You can move into that which is your own spiritual inner awareness and move upward through the levels of your own consciousness until you find that which is the Christ within you. When you do, you will protect it as a pearl of great price. You may find many things changing in your life, as you awaken inwardly. You may find that you associate with people who are also on an upward path. You may sacrifice some old friendships, if those people are expressing a downward path of energy. That's being smart. You may find that you stop doing those things that make you sick physically. You may change your diet, stop smoking, get a job that makes you happy and fulfilled, find relationships that support you and people with whom you can share love. These things

One way you can tell if you are functioning in the consciousness of the Christ is to see if you complete things in this world. If you do, you're ascending. If you don't, you're descending. If you have too many jobs, too many things to do, cut out some of them. Be wise. Don't take on more than you can handle. Take on just the things you can complete.

WITHIN

are healthy. If you don't want to change, that's okay, too. You can sleep a little longer. It's all your choice.

If you know what to do, why not do that? If you know what makes you ill or upset or in turmoil, why not turn from that? You are a creator, and you are responsible for your actions. So why not create those things that will bring you health, wealth, and happiness? Why not shift your focus to your own beingness, to that which brings you joy and fulfillment? As you awaken to the Christ, you will do those things that are right for you.

One way you can tell if you are functioning in the consciousness of the Christ is to see if you complete things in this world. If you do, you're ascending. If you don't, you're descending. If you have too many jobs, too many things to do, cut out some of them. Be wise. Don't take on more than you can handle. Take on just the things you can complete. Those things that are not completed are thrown right back at you, and you must take the responsibility for them. Christ is the perfect completer. If you strive toward perfection, the work you have started will be finished by the Christ. Your responsibility is to get on with the state of being perfect. Work toward it. Focus toward it. And when you leave the earth, the work will be completed. And you will perfectly arise into the heart of God. Jesus, our elder brother, promised this. And we can complete it and fulfill his promise.

Christmas is a good time of year to take stock of your life. And it's a good time of year to complete old actions that have been left "hanging." It's a good time to share your love with those you care for; it's a good time of year to pay off your debts, to clear the air, to attune yourself more closely than ever to the Christ within you ... and to the Christ in others. The Christ awakens according to your focus, your direction, and your attitude.

You can lift yourself out of darkness by stopping your complaining, your tears, your bemoaning and feeling sorry for yourself. Why not say instead, "I get along really well. God is with me. All my needs are being supplied. I'm loved, and I'm taken care of?" What if that's wrong? It's a nice approach; and you will create that for yourself, because you are a creator.

Often, as you begin to awaken to the Christ, as you begin to transfer your energy to the upward path, you will feel pain and irritation and confusion, and you won't be able to identify where that's coming from. You'll try to "pin it" on all the worldly causes that have been the causes in the past. You'll think it's the food, but you're not eating any differently than usual. You'll look at the emotions, but realize that everything has been fine. You'll look at the mind, but things seem okay there. But there is still this great disturbance inside. You search and search for something outside of you that is the cause. It's not out there. It's inside. It's your disagreement with yourself. It's your inability to manifest completely and fully that thing that is bursting inside of you. It is your inability to make the outer life match the fullness and the beauty of the inner life that is beginning to take place. When you experience this turning of energy within, you'll know what I'm talking about.

The indwelling Christ sings a beautiful song. That is the Sound of God, the audible Light stream, the current of energy that is flowing upward to God. It's the invisible route to God, and the only way to God is by that invisible route. The outward trappings of any religion or spiritual group are not for the Christ within, but for the body, mind and emotions-to hold them still and keep them distracted long enough for the Christ to awaken to itself.

To awaken the Christ, go within your own inner consciousness where your emotions, mind and body will leave you alone for a little while. Find the peace and comfort that is within your own inner kingdom. Your inner journey will be protected by the Spirit that dwells within. You can reach into your inner kingdom through meditation, contemplation, prayer, spiritual exercises, by reading enlightening books, being with enlightened people, continually moving forward and awakening the love within you. But even in your wildest dreams, you'll fall short of the glory that is within you.

Awaken into God's heart. Become the Christ in your imagination first, then in your love for all men, then in your mind, and finally in your Soul, which is pure. And then you ride up into God's heart, forsaking all things to come into the kingdom.

And you will know the significance of Jesus' life and teachings, the meaning of Christmas, the love of the Father, and the presence of the Beloved.

The magic of Christmas rests with the attitude. When you catch the vision of Christ consciousness, then your attitude becomes one of joy and love and peace and upliftment. You feel those qualities come alive within you, and then as you express them more in every action, relationship, and situation in which you find yourself, you awaken even more to the Christ within.

Merry Christmas

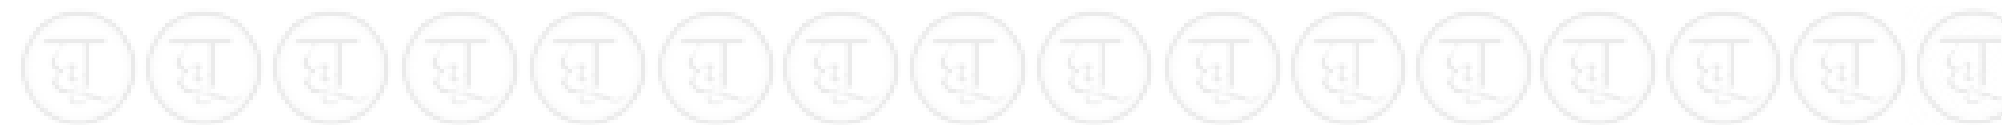

and Baruch Bashan

Are you happy? Did you know we all have a need for happiness? It's one of the ten blessings John-Roger named – Loving, Caring, Sharing, Prosperity, Abundance, Riches, Health, Wealth, Happiness and Touching. John-Roger said, "The quest for happiness is an eternal one, something that we all say and we all look for and yet it seems to be one of the most elusive qualities and commodities."

Are You Choosing Happiness?

by John Morton, DSS

Because the Light is the consciousness of the Divine and it has all the ability, it has all of whatever we need. The Light can clear, so ask for a clearing and a balancing. If you're in any way suppressing your happiness, then allow your happiness to be fully alive and energized into every cell.

ARE YOU HAPPY? Did you know we all have a need for happiness? It's one of the ten blessings John-Roger named – Loving, Caring, Sharing, Prosperity, Abundance, Riches, Health, Wealth, Happiness and Touching. John-Roger said, "The quest for happiness is an eternal one, something that we all say and we all look for and yet it seems to be one of the most elusive qualities and commodities."

Have you ever noticed that when you'd like to be happy, it seems to be a rare commodity? And if it's available, it seems to be with other people or situations that you don't seem to have access to? That's okay. The nature of the soul, of who we truly are, is happiness and joy. So consider this truth --- Happiness is your true nature.

In the Movement of Spiritual Inner Awareness, we invite you to consider that first and foremost you are a soul. Once you log-on to that truth, then there are infinite opportunities to have greater experiences of your nature as a soul. And to know your soul is an experience of happiness and joy.

Consider the soul is in some way tempted by things that are material and of the world, things that are temporary and illusive. We might have an experience of happiness for a while. Then something happens in the world that we've identified with our happiness, and then it seems as if the experience of happiness is no longer available. We no longer feel happy because our happiness was tied to that event or that person or that situation. And then we find ourselves searching out in the world for our happiness.

Looking for happiness out in the world is where we get misdirected. We can forget that inside is the happiness because it lies in the nature of our soul. When we attempt to find happiness in outer things and what's going on in the world, then we can have some kind of disconnect with who we truly are.

John-Roger said, "Joy is inherent through the soul. When we have joy when it is coming up inside of us, it does not matter what you do out there or what you say. What you become does not disturb the center of calm and happiness because it is what is. Therein lies your fulfillment for being on this level."

By opening up to your happiness within, you have a greater opportunity to bless the world with your happiness. When we are happy, we are spontaneous and open to participate. We allow our creativity, that happy energy, to move out into the world and touch others.

KEYS TO HAPPINESS

HOW DO YOU EXPERIENCE HAPPINESS? How do you find ways to happiness? Happiness is here and now. So see if you can find some way to relate to the happiness that's here and now in this moment. Consider that happiness and joy is in each person. So if you happen to see a person (and by the way, you are one), see happiness right there with that person. Right there within you is happiness and joy. So what are the keys to your experience of the happiness and joy inside of you and in other people?

During an MSIA web-cast that I facilitated, "1000 Ways to Happiness," we gathered from the participants some keys to experiencing happiness. Here are a few: Noticing flowers blooming, seeing babies' faces, smiling, laughing, sleeping, looking in a person's eyes, watching trees and bushes sway, noticing colors on people's clothes, enjoying cars and homes, listening to music, and doing good deeds for others. Doing good deeds doesn't just have to be for people. It can be putting a shine on a sidewalk or floor or watching a sunset over a beautiful ocean and appreciating the beauty in nature.

A hug can bring forward happiness. Would you be willing to give someone a hug to experience the joy and happiness in the hug? How about offering a calm, soothing glance into someone's eyes?

HERE ARE SOME OTHER KEYS FOR CHOOSING INTO HAPPINESS:

FIND THE HUMOR. One of the things that I heard John-Roger say a long time ago is, "If it's going to be funny later, it's funny now." Have you ever noticed that when you have strife and adversity, it becomes eventually one of the best sources of laughter? When you finally get around to being able to tell the story without being so aware of the pain or the suffering, disappointment or whatever it was that kept you out of your happiness, you see the humor. Professional comedians stand up in front of groups of people and get paid to do that, to share stories that were once painful and upsetting in ways that bring the humor and joy present. That's a key to sharing their happiness. So find the humor.

THINK HAPPY THOUGHTS. Have you ever been in a train station where there are lots of tracks with lots of trains going different places? Trains change tracks. They change direction. And you can change your thoughts and where you choose to direct your thoughts.

There's energy in a happy thought. Part of it is your willingness to move away from any unhappy thoughts and choose the happy ones. Change how you think so you find a happy thought of some kind.

If you don't know what a happy thought is, you might want to find one. Then maybe write it down and put it in your wallet so you carry it around with you as a reminder. If you forget, you can pull out your wallet and go to the "Happy Thought" section.

DO HAPPY THINGS. John-Roger has said, "If you want to be happy, do happy things." That may sound simple, or maybe you think you don't know how to do happy things. You could have the "Happy" section in your wallet include a reminder of something you could do that would be happy. Maybe your reminder says to break out into a song or start skipping. See where your willingness is. Are you willing to do skip up to the check-out stand or break into song while waiting to pay for your groceries?

What would you be willing to do for your happiness? Rather than saying, "I'm not willing to do that. That's too ridiculous and embarrassing. People won't understand," choose to do something happy just for the joy of it. Others may not agree with your happiness. They may think that you are responding inappropriately. If your happiness is misunderstood or judged by others, you can turn it to peace, understanding, and compassion. You can choose to be happy regardless.

CHOOSE THE LIGHT. The consciousness of Light is the consciousness of who God is. So another way to do choose happiness is to think of God. Be conscious of God right now and who and what God is. What are you thinking? What are you seeing?

Maybe you envision a loved one being vibrant and healthy. Perhaps you imagine someone you miss being right there with you. Maybe you realize you're alone and yet you're embraced, appreciated, and loved fully and completely. In fact, you remember you're adored by God. So choose the Light that is from the highest source. Choose God which is eternal, unconditional love.

Are You Choosing Happiness?

by John Morton, DSS

(Continuing)

LOOK FOR THE GOOD. John-Roger referred to the secret of soul transcendence as, "Look for the good in all people and things and leave the rest to God." Soul transcendence is the business of the Movement of Spiritual Inner Awareness. It's our purpose. What does that mean?

We're allowing our souls to come into our consciousness awareness. We do that here and now. As we do that, experiences can lift us and help make things better. If nothing else, our thoughts start changing their attunement so they're happier, freer, more joyful and more peaceful.

Have the willingness to look for the good. It isn't necessarily about finding the good or seeing the good. Soul transcendence is about looking for the good. Choose to look for the good rather than declare there is no good just because you haven't seen it yet. If you're not seeing the good right now, then keep looking. Looking for the good in all people and things is the secret to soul transcendence and a key to happiness.

FOCUS ON GRATITUDE. It's a great attitude, so find your gratitude. Find what you appreciate. Find the value in the situation. This is an amazing way to move things away from feeling stuck or from a problem focus. If you're viewing a situation as a problem, something you don't know how to solve or you don't know how to handle, look for your gratitude. Find what you appreciate in the situation.

You'll always be correct if you look at what you're learning in a situation. Realize you're being educated. You're being increased in your wisdom and your ability to endure and withstand similar kinds of situations. There's always value in discovering the teaching and what is your learning in the process. So choose into your gratitude.

CHOOSE A POSITIVE INTERPRETATION. This process may involve retraining your mind. It might require your patience and dedication so you alter how you process what goes on. Maybe you eliminate the first twenty things that appear in your mind because you realize they're all negative thoughts. You just kind of wait for them to roll through and then realize, "Hey, there's a positive way to look at that!"

Find a positive, uplifting way to interpret whatever is going on. This is a mental process to be aware of so you're interpreting what you see or hear. Rather than interpret negatively, trust that there is something good going on in each situation and look for that positive interpretation.

WIN IN YOUR FANTASIES. This is another great teaching that has come from John-Roger. One of our greatest tools is our imagination. When we are aware, we also realize that we have a consciousness that is creative and makes things up or down as the case may be. The imagination is free to go wherever we want to direct it. As long as we're going to fantasize and make things up and then be influenced by the pictures we hold, then it makes perfect sense to win and create positively so those same kinds of results follow how we focus our creativity.

Ask my dentist. She can tell you that most often I direct her to drill and use sharp instruments without any numbing agents applied. I use this opportunity to imagine that what she is doing feels good. I fantasize that she's giving my teeth and gums a very intense massage. Call it self-hypnosis or mind over matter. I don't care what you call it. Fantasies can work to create your happiness.

Find Greater Happiness. Consider an area or situation in your life where you would like to experience greater happiness. Be open to not having an immediate answer, or maybe you have several. Just start with one, and make it rather simple for the moment.

Next, consider how you inhibit your expression of happiness in that situation. Even if you think, "I don't inhibit my experience or my expression of happiness," give yourself an opportunity to consider that sometimes you do and take some responsibility. Maybe you say, "I don't inhibit. I am not in any way blocking or restricting my happiness." Well, that attitude may be how you inhibit your happiness.

Choose one of the ways for finding happiness that I've noted so far. Then close your eyes and imagine yourself using this way to happiness. See it or imagine it as clearly and as detailed as you can.

Look inside at what would be happy thoughts in a situation where you want to have greater happiness. How would you do happy thinking towards that situation? Would you be open to an experience of happiness more than you've ever experienced before? That willingness, that gumption, that enthusiasm is often experienced within like a fountain or a spring. It's an endless supply. So use it to bring forward greater happiness.

Let yourself be a little freer right now, a little more childlike, a little more open. Know that safe place inside where you are free to be happy and to express that happiness as openly as you would like.

INCREASE YOUR LIGHT. Turning up the voltage of the Light, the energy of it, has to do with to your openness and willingness. Would you be willing to be lit up as much as you've ever been lit up? And to express freely what that is? You can express the happy thoughts that go with the Light and do happy things in a way that is illuminated, bright and bold.

We ask the Light to do what it does. Because the Light is the consciousness of the Divine and it has all the ability, it has all of whatever we need. The Light can clear, so ask for a clearing and a balancing. If you're in any way suppressing your happiness, then allow your happiness to be fully alive and energized into every cell. The Light can go to any cells wanting that happy vibration and deliver it to them.

Share some happy thoughts with any place inside of you that you have not been happy towards. That could be physically, emotionally, or mentally. That could be towards any memory you have or an event in your life in the past that you've not been happy towards. You can open to the Light and let the Light come in like a wind of fresh air. Let that Light come in and take away what you don't need. Don't hang on to misery or pain or any form of unhappiness. Invite the Light into whatever that negativity is inside of you. Allow this Light to become a flood or a rush, so the Light is becoming bright within you.

LET THE LIGHT BECOME YOU AND BREATHE YOU. Breathe in the Light and breathe it out. Breathe it in and breathe it out. Let it be in your eyes, ears and all your senses so you're lit up in the Light that is of the divine nature and the Holy Spirit and the Christ. The anointing can come in right on top of your head and flood you as an energy. It can dance through the room where you are. It can wake people up who have been sleeping. For things that have been slowing you down and not allowing you to see and hear clearly, the Light can help liberate you to be yourself more clearly and fully. Let go and let this Light of God infuse you and surround you completely.

Right now, it's all a Light action going on through your willingness and openness. The Lord that is our God wants happiness for us. So let your trust inside realize that you have a God of eternal love who wants you to be happy.

BLESS YOURSELF. With whatever is confronting you, first of all bless yourself. You have the ability in you to call upon what is needed to bless yourself with happiness. The experience of your happiness, contentment, satisfaction, and peace is always within. So you never have to give your happiness over to outer circumstances. It is for you to realize that your glory, your love, your peace is always present with you and to not assign it to anyone else or anything else regardless of what takes place.

Remember to be compassionate and merciful towards yourself. So when you find yourself doing things that you consider dumb, stupid or idiotic, rather than take that choice, make a positive interpretation. Talk to yourself in a way that demonstrates internally that you have compassion for yourself. You can always say to yourself, "Oh, I see I'm still learning here. There's still something I'm working on like my patience, my willingness to do something one more time and do it more correctly if I can." Then bless yourself and your learning.

KNOW THE BLESSINGS OF HAPPINESS: You can know the blessings of happiness through your trust and faith in God. Trust yourself in relation to God that everything that ever takes place in your life and in all of creation is never against anyone. Be aware that God sustains good, all the time, every time.

When we are consciously in accordance with that knowing, we have trust in God. We have trust that what is being done, what has been done, and what will be done is good. There is no point in fighting with it. There is no point in judging it. There is no point in being unhappy with what is. When we have doubts or fears or when we judge ourselves, we can always let go and choose into the blessings of happiness.

TO THE HAPPINESS WITHIN A GUIDED MEDITATION

One of the ways we practice the movement of spiritual inner awareness, and it's the primary way, is be aware inside. So take a moment to do a happy version of that.

Find a position that is more or less relaxing to you. If you're holding on to something and you don't have to hold on to it, set it down. Put yourself in a comfortable, restful position.

Using the creative imagination, consider you're wild and free and capable in a single bound to leap to happiness and to see it instantly. So see yourself in a happy place, a beautiful place.

Experiencing laughter is okay. In fact it may be rampant laughter, like a babbling brook, or soft giggles as you are tickled inside with the joy of your soul.

Whatever you see, it somehow touches how you experience yourself happy. Maybe it makes you laugh or smile. Maybe it puts you at ease.

You begin to notice things you especially like. Often this is simply noticing how beautiful nature is --- the colors, the shapes, how things move. There's a movement that tells us this place is alive, vibrant and harmonious. There are many sounds, and all the sounds are welcome and uplifting.

Take some time to notice other things you find beautiful, uplifting, and nurturing. Maybe you go into water that's delightfully refreshing. Maybe it's a gentle rain or a cool spring.

Your cells respond to whatever you sense. The aliveness of you is very keen. You experience yourself free to move. Maybe you dance. Maybe you run. Maybe you sit still and take in the beauty of the universe.

Your breathing is full of life. You come alive with each breath. As you breathe out, it's as though you're breathing into all of this beauty and your entire surroundings.

Now go on a little discovery walk up to a high place. It doesn't have to be a great journey. It can be a simple movement forward, where you just find yourself on top of a hill or mountain. It's very comfortable there, so you find a place to sit and breathe in deeply. Notice the Light and how brilliant the colors are wherever you look.

Now you are gently approached by someone. Maybe you recognize this person as a special friend. This person is completely happy, contented and at peace. They are sharing this happy presence with you, and they come bearing gifts.

This person shows you special gems or jewels that are brilliant blues, reds, greens, yellows or different colors. They're all very beautiful. All these gems have a special energy. This person shares these jewels with you. Somehow you take them in, and you now wear them too.

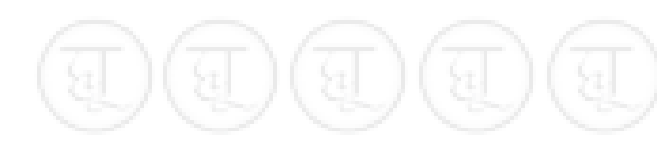

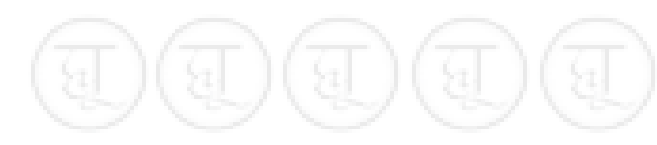

There's a radiation with each gem wherever it is placed inside of your consciousness. It may be an experience of it being physically placed with you in the head, around the head or in the body. When it internalizes, it becomes part of your energy. You realize that these gems and jewels are for you as an energy that is placed with you.

What you are aware of is that each jewel carries a light and a quality that is harmonizing for you, reminding you that you are created in a very perfect way regardless of how you viewed yourself at any time in your existence. These gems have a way of helping you to realize everything has contributed to your growth to you becoming strong, clear, wise, healthy, and happy. This process becomes an attunement for you that's completely absorbed and welcomed.

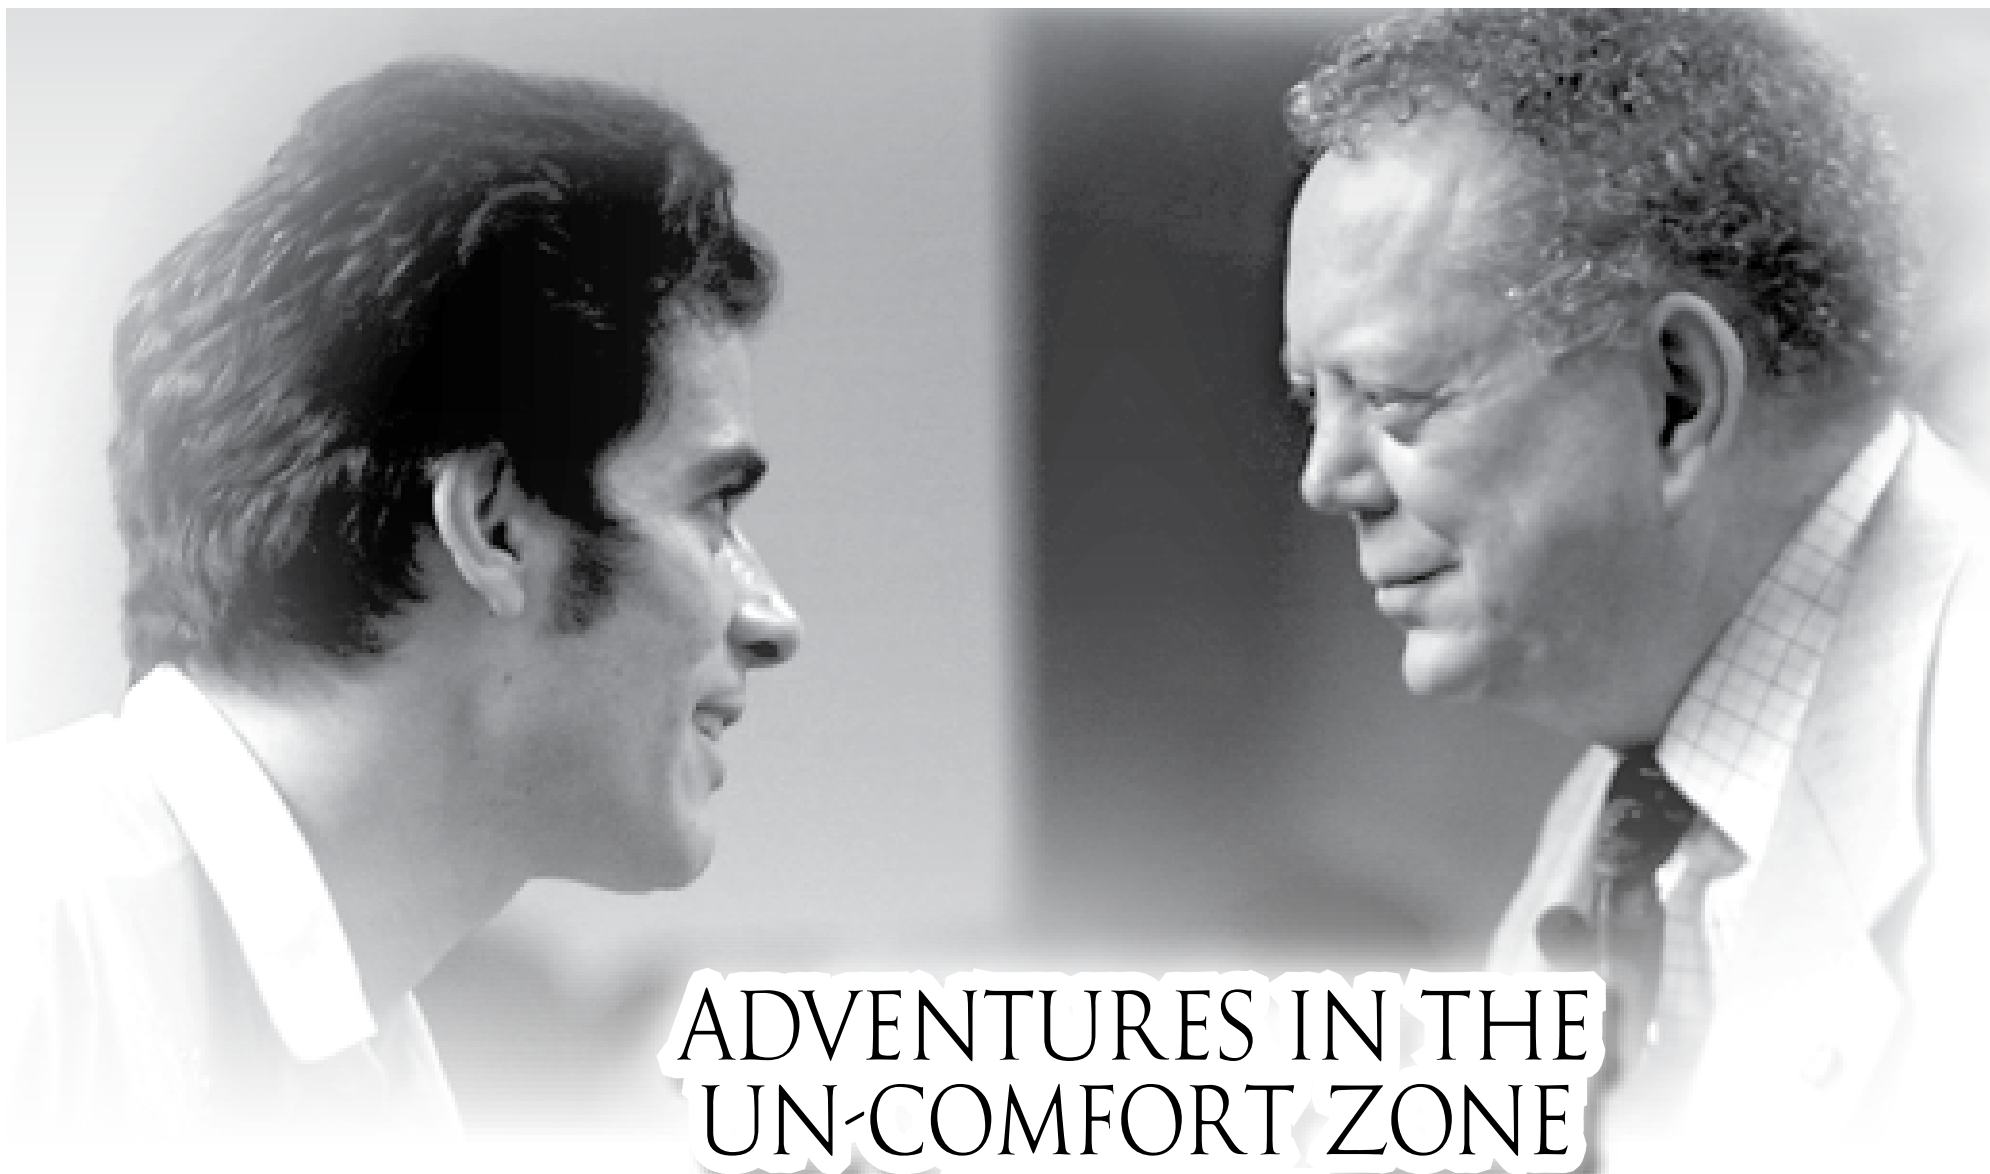

If there's anything that has in some way caused you to be concerned, or worry or wondered, it is answered so you understand and appreciate that you are blessed. You are gifted. What has been placed with you as treasures have added to your well-being and to your knowing that as you walk in this world you are blessed, and treasured and happy.

Even when you forget, which is part of the human condition, and you forget how treasured, beautiful and radiant you are, you will remember your happiness and be opened. You'll see that all of what has been gifted to you is still present, radiating, and harmonizing you, letting your mind, your emotions and all of the energy that is in your body and consciousness to lift and realize your true nature. You are joyful and happy.

You are blessed. You are bright, and you are beautiful. You are crowned in the glory that is God.

ADVENTURES IN THE UN-COMFORT ZONE

THE MAKING OF
"MYSTICAL TRAVELER: THE LIFE AND TIMES OF DR. JOHN-ROGER"

AN INTERVIEW WITH JSU GARCIA

by David Sand

Js Garcia has recently completed a 3-1/2 hour film biography of J-R that has premiered at the Conference of the Mystical Traveler 2013 in Los Angeles and in London. We caught up with him in Los Angeles in October, just after the month-long John-Roger travels in England that he organized and led along with Nicholas Brown.

DS: When did you start work on the movie?

JG: Right now it's all a blur. In the winter of 2010, after we completed The Wayshower, I got a hit inside to start interviewing the "elders" in MSIA to get their stories down on film while we still had the chance. Laurie Lerner came along and offered to produce it and got us a camera. It was great to have our own camera, because renting one every time we wanted to interview someone would have cost a huge amount of money.

I was able to travel with that camera all over the world to do interviews. I didn't know what I was doing. I just knew I was going to gather "data." Thor Wixon, the second unit cameraman on The Wayshower, jumped on board as the Director of Photography (DP). So I started getting interview after interview, asking everyone the same five questions: How did you meet J-R? What was it like? What's your favorite food? What would you like to tell J-R? During times of controversy, how did you get the strength inside of you to keep going?

DS: At what point did you realize you were doing a documentary?

JG: As soon as I rolled the camera I realized I had something more than just interviews, that this was something bigger. We interviewed a lot of people who were there from the beginning, including some who have now passed over like Norma Howe, Joe Ann Cain, and Steve Ferrick. The rolling of the camera was like the Traveler and the Light overshadowing the microphone when you share at Living in Grace. People were intense—laughing, crying. It was really affecting me. I was watching testimonials from people who had sweat blood and tears in the Movement. These were the people who created the Movement and were part of it. I was being completely humbled. Just because I live with J-R it doesn't mean anything—these guys are the real guys. When you hear their stories you think, "Wow, I'm sorry I judged you." We went to the original sources, the people who were actually there, like Pauli Sanderson and Candace Semigran, and we got it in their own words.

I wanted a lot of points of view so no one person would alter or compromise my search. I didn't care if they were people who had left the Movement because at the time they were involved and the Movement was blossoming—just like in the Shakespeare lines that J-R quotes in the movie:

*There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries.
On such a full sea are we now afloat,
And we must take the current when it serves,
Or lose our ventures.*

The first couple of editors started piecing the interviews together and asking for other footage to fill in the blanks. Those early editors, especially Matthew Rundell, who edited The Wayshower, would ask questions like, "When was J-R born?" So we'd find footage that dealt with that, and pretty soon we'd have footage about his whole life. We found seminars where he talked about early parts of his life, like the car accident before he got the keys to the Traveler consciousness.

So we would pull this footage together and we had sections of different eras of J-R's life. We created a board that listed all these different eras and what we had on film. So I was floating around with a ton of material, 8mm film that had been scanned in the '90's (the scanning quality was OK but today the scanning quality is off the hook, so we needed to re-scan it).

I didn't know where it was going or even how to access the MSIA archives. That's when Barbara Wieland, the MSIA librarian and archivist, came along. She was able to get me anything. Whatever we asked for from the archives Barbara would find it, and then Phil Danza, the head of Now Productions, along with Nir Livni, would organize and copy the footage. Chuck Moore of NOW Productions would make 24-hour-a-day trips to the vault where all J-R media is stored to get whatever I needed. Amazing guy. In the process we even had a chance to upgrade the archival system because sometimes there were discrepancies between the database and what was in the vaults.

As the project grew bigger the original editors needed to go on to other projects because I couldn't afford to keep paying them. We were floundering for 2 months and I was desperate to find editors. You can't really edit this stuff without "getting" J-R. And that can take years. It's taken me 27 years to "get" J-R—just like all of us. So if you find an editor who's really good, how do you get him to a place where he understands enough to really do the editing? It would take a month to two months in the editing room just for an editor to "get" J-R. Finally I found two great editors, Aaron Thacker, who did the graphics, and Josh Muscatine.

I called Lisa Day, who edited Great Balls of Fire, the Jerry Lee Lewis bio, and told her I was in trouble. She told me to relax and just build the skeleton first, and then later on add all the different layers. That gave me a direction, and we started to build the bones of the movie—all the different phases of J-R's life—and find the footage that related to those. Then we could fill in the missing parts with photos, interviews, seminars, etc. Someone would talk about a person in an interview and I could call up Barbara to get photos of that person, and suddenly I'd have hundreds of photos.

Without J-R, the MSIA Presidency, NOW Productions, and all the MSIA tithers and seeders out there, none of this would have been possible. I got to see how the money is spent and the amazing job that's being done in organizing, storing, and making all the media available. Anybody now can punch in what they're looking for and access media from any point in the history of J-R's work. I was able to look for footage not just by date or seminar number, but even by city, so we could recreate the history of MSIA in any area we wanted to.

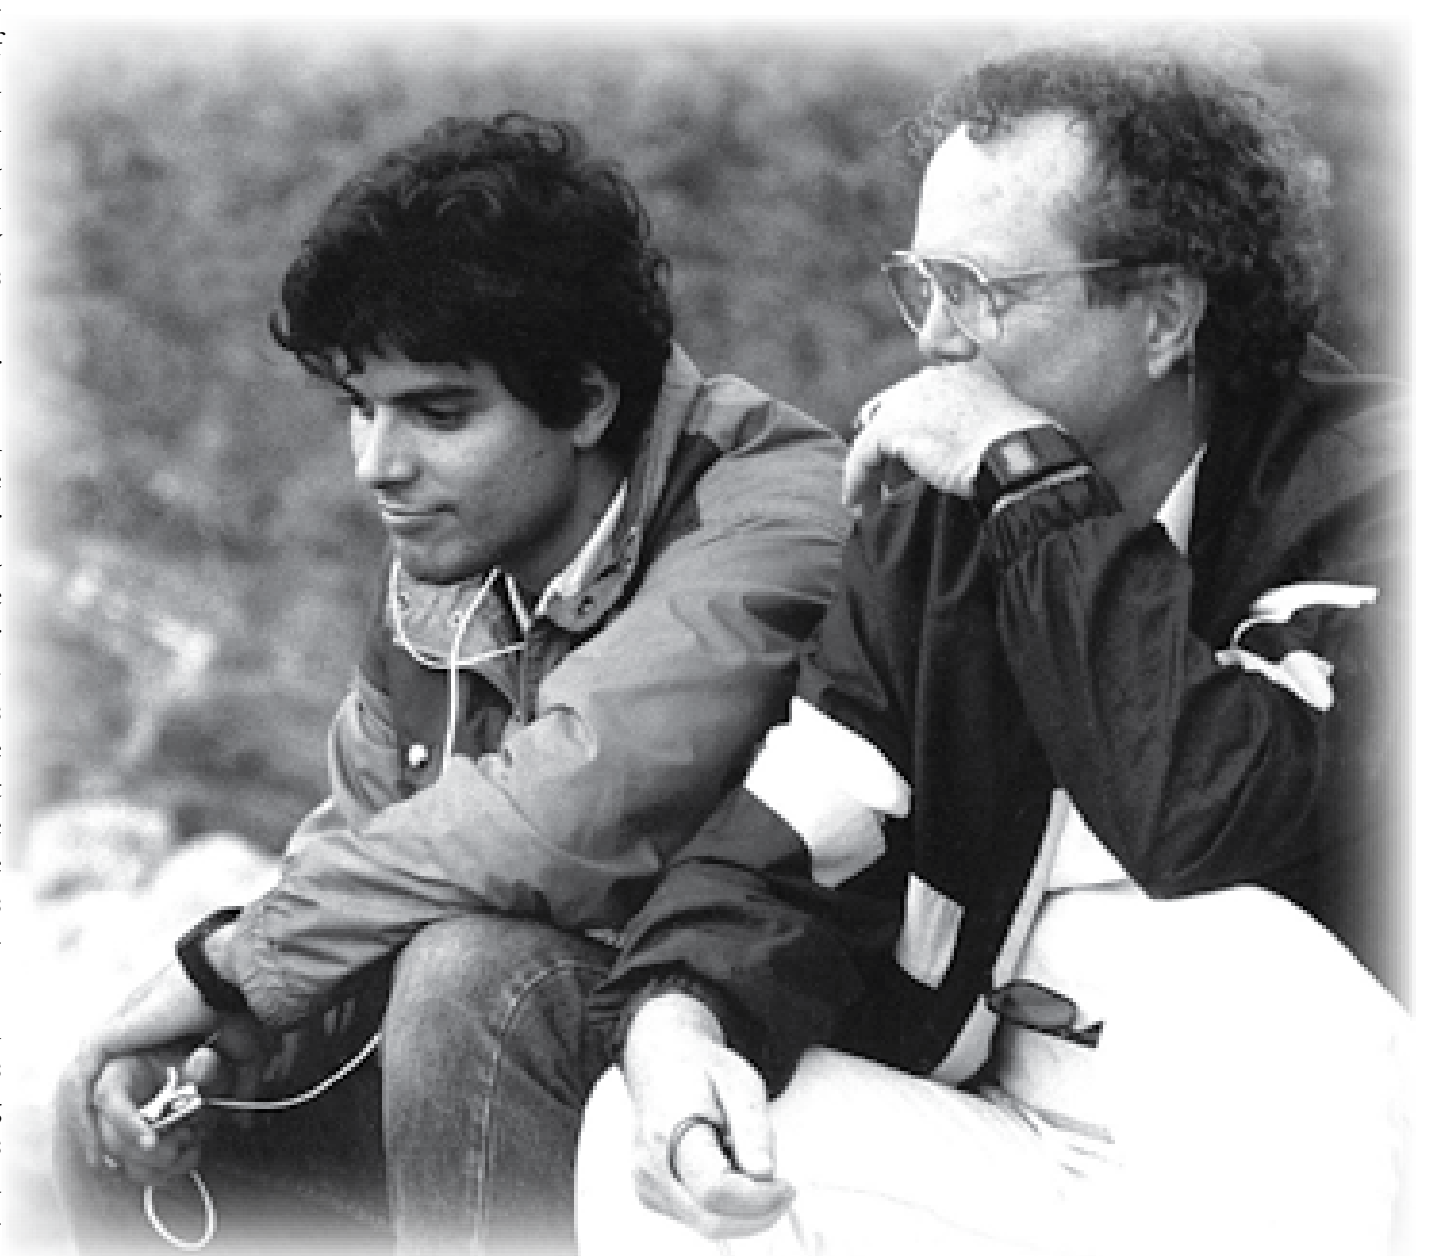

We went through 100 terabytes of data. We narrowed that down to ((290 gigabytes)) for the final film. So you can imagine how much information we went through. We were driving ourselves hard for two years. I don't know if the machine will ever run as hard again as we ran. I would be like, "Phil, I need this NOW," and Phil would say, "Yeah, I'm on it." And it would get done. Mark Lurie was my right-hand man to keep the legal area lined up. Mark always had the attitude of, "I'm here for you. Whatever needs to get done, we'll do." I work for free. What I get is the enjoyment of being part of history.

It was almost as though there was nothing I couldn't do, nothing I couldn't create—mostly because I would go to J-R. I would say, "J-R, I need to interview Larry King, can you put it in the Light?" The next thing I know, I have an appointment with Larry King. I'd say, "I need Tony Robbins, how am I going to get to him?" I ran into his lawyer the next day. I didn't go looking for stars, I went looking for the people J-R touched during his life.

We went through an incredible number of rolls of film to find stills. There is even film that was never developed, and we had to scan it to make contact sheets just to see what was there. And luckily some of the early staff people filmed J-R with the old 8mm film cameras. The bulk of the expense of the movie was restoring all that 8mm footage. We had something like 55 hours of this stuff that has never been seen before. We made a big investment in restoring that 8mm film, thanks to the Presidency and J-R. And it looks gorgeous. There is also an old Laren Bright interview with J-R

UN-COMFORT ZONE...
AN INTERVIEW WITH JSU GARCIA

that was shot with a camera that was tethered to a recording device. That technology doesn't exist anymore, so we had to find someone who could scan that to get it into a format we could use.

DS: What was it like to look at all that early footage?

JG: Everything was exploding, and the 8mm film really reveals a bygone era. It's like a time capsule. You see J-R in that context and of course you're in love with him. Just imagine having film of the time of Jesus, and seeing all the people with him. Now you can be a witness to something amazing that happened in our own time. In 100 years we'll all be gone. Will the film be what people look at to know how it was? I don't know, it's digital, and who knows how long that will last? It might just disappear with the ones and the zeros. But the journey was amazing and I was investigating J-R like a reporter.

I learned to be a reporter, and then I learned how to be a scholar. I'd see a person in the background of a piece of film from 1970—something and wonder who it was....and then the editor would come to me all excited and say, "I think I found this who this person was...look at this!" And then we'd see them in the 8mm footage. We'd be looking at a piece of film and have no idea where it was from, and then we could enhance it and pan down and see a San Francisco newspaper under the table, and we'd know the location. We'd piece together times and locations according to J-R's hairstyles, or a car he was driving, or some other detail.

I don't know if there are many people who have as much archival footage of their lives as J-R. (Maybe George Harrison—I highly recommend the documentary of his life, Living in the Material World.) I was pushing everybody hard to get all this material together, especially NOW Productions and Barbara Wieland. Even with all that material there are still gaps where there is no film. There are places where we've had incredible experiences, like in Egypt on some of the PAT IV's, where we don't have everything filmed, so we had to go to photographs or interviews.

We finally assembled a two-hour version. We used code-words for the different assemblies of the movie that came from the different versions of the space shuttle. That first two-hour version that we finished in 2012 was the Endeavor. The final one would be Atlantis.

When we screened that 2-hour version we got feedback that there wasn't enough of the teachings of J-R. We had purposely held that back because we didn't want to preach or proselytize. But it didn't present a full picture of J-R's work, so we added 50 minutes of the teachings, in depth. Watching the movie, you can feel how it drops you into the depth of the energy. Aaron Thacker added amazing 3-D graphics to create 3-D versions of still photos, and to show the realms of consciousness, using a level of software that's used in sci-fi movies. It brought the picture to a whole new level.

In April of this year we sat down with the editors and made a big board outlining Atlantis, the final version. We had a 3 hour and 50 minute movie. We tried to cut it down, and we were able to cut out some little things, but we realized that at 3 1/2 hours, that was the movie. No more adding and no more taking away. At that point we just had to decide on how to put what we had in order. We divided it with haiku-like titles and little sections of 8mm film that we called chapter breaks. Rather than say something literal like "Utah—The Early Years," we would use short J-R quotes from the film, and that would "gestalt" that part of the movie in a way that sparked people's interest.

DS: What was J-R's role in the film?

JG: The best part of the movie was that I got to work with J-R. He's always involved—and he's involved in my head. And those are the best times that I have in making movies. I ask myself, "What would J-R think? What would he do here?" And I had every answer. Sometimes I'd be with him and I'd be depressed and he'd ask me what was wrong, and I'd say, "I'm not getting such-and-such for the movie." And the next day I'd get a call about it. J-R was always my oracle that I would complain to, and he would magically change something. It was like there were no obstacles in making this movie. J-R was like Ganesha, the Hindu god who's the remover of obstacles. If J-R didn't give me the green light, it just wouldn't happen.

All along we were showing J-R clips of the movie to get his OK. I can't claim credit for any of this. I wanted to become a conduit so that Spirit and J-R would talk to me. In all my decisions I would defer inwardly to the Spirit. All along I kept hearing J-R's voice echoing in my head, "Do it right. Do it right." And every time I found myself cutting corners, it was like, "No, man, do it right."

I knew I needed to stand strong in the conviction of what I needed to say, of what I know as J-R. The overall purpose of the movie is to show that J-R served the Lord. I just wanted to put J-R out there as honestly as I could. Then the secondary part is to make it artistic and cool. There was one time when one of the editors didn't think I'd care, but he edited a J-R quote. When I asked him to replay the original, I could see that it was changed so it made sense in the storyline of the movie, but it also changed the meaning. It reminded me of the way the teachings of Jesus were changed in the Bible. We changed it back to the original. It was very important to stay as true as I could to J-R.

I didn't feel that I had to be defensive about anything. I wanted to reveal everything. And I'd like other spiritual organizations to do documentaries like this about themselves so we can know more about them. I've had so many people come up to me and say, "I didn't know that about J-R," and they were spouses of people in the Movement. They would say, "I totally see J-R now. Before I was seeing him through my spouse's eyes. Now I get it." It was worth it because of that. J-R puts an energy with the movie, and you just get it. He saw it on July 5 and said the energy is on it, the Christ is working with it.

I'd love to take credit for all this, but I can't. I'm just the bus driver. It was J-R who opened the door, and everybody just participated, and participated hard-core. Zoe, the line producer, was a killer worker. And Laurie Lerner, the producer, always came through when I needed anything.

DS: Were there things that changed in your perception of J-R through making the movie?

JG: He's really intense. I knew him for 27 years, but most of that was after he gave the keys to John. And it was still a hard school. But I can imagine what it must have been like when he was in his thirties. When I moved in with him I really had to learn how to move, but back then I'll bet you had to move twice as fast, or you'd get left behind. In making the movie I saw how he was clearly following an inner direction.

I'm friends with J-R the funny guy, the clown. Up here at Mandeville we're with the J-R that's just hanging out, and that's what I grew up with. But when he's lecturing that's the other J-R. And I fell in love with all the old staff members who have gone. They're like rock stars. And the women who were around in the 70's and 80's—I would think, thank God I didn't know her then, I would have fallen in love with her and married her. And I was shocked by who actually married who. Most of all, I'm shocked by how much J-R has done.

I love the early days, the hippie time, when everybody was sleeping on the ground, and working hard, and when there were fires and floods up at Mandeville everybody pitched in to help J-R. I learned that people follow J-R because of the love. That's what it was about.

That's the great lesson for me—you always come back to the love. I came to the conclusion that either J-R is who he says he is, or everybody's crazy—because he affected all those people. Maybe he could have brainwashed a few people—but all those people had the same inner experiences. I've interviewed probably 100 people, and the ripples and effects that J-R has had on people—it's incredible. I don't get that when I'm just up here at Mandeville with J-R. But then when I interviewed all these people, I got touched by how J-R touched them. And I could see all the ways that he touched them privately—not just through seminars—but he held everyone's hand as they went through their lives. I was moved by their being moved. The average interview was about 20 to 40 minutes, and it was like a mini-seminar inside of me. I interviewed Steve Ferrick just before he died, and when the interview ended, he said, "Well, J-R, my bags are packed." That really trips you out, to interview someone who knows he's going, and who knows he's going with the Traveler.

DS: Were there ways that you changed in the process of doing the movie?

JG: I think I got meaner. I'm trying to learn to be more delicate with people. But I learned there is a giant core inside me, and that's my true self, the part that J-R helped to grow. And it grew by listening inwardly and staying true. Part of the test for people in the Movement, and for everyone else, is whether we get thrown off our path by other people, or whether we stand up and fight the fight of what we need to get done, without hurting someone. I would just make it known that "hey, we're going to finish this movie." People would tell me it was impossible. And I would tell them the possibilities. Sometimes I would lie to them. I would tell them what we were going to do, and then I'd leave the room and go, "Oh my God, what are we going to do?" But that was my job to do, not theirs. My job was to go cry to J-R and go, "Please, you've got to do something. I think I've bitten off more than I can chew."

We had plenty of time, and plenty of time for disaster. And at the end we got to mix the movie at Warner Bros. with Dane Davis and the Dane Tracks folks who did sound for The Matrix. These were people who aren't in the Movement who love J-R, who have met him and who like what he has to say. As we were sound mixing the movie you could see how J-R's seminars would make these people think. Some of them are believers, some are atheists...it doesn't matter. In the midst of making a movie we were having discussions about philosophy and spirituality. So working with J-R, or doing a movie with J-R, is always fun, even though you're working so much.

It was hard but it was worth it when we saw the result at the screening on July 5. When I looked out in the audience and saw that full house, with J-R there, the pain was all gone. We flew, like the Wright Brothers. While you're making the movie, as soon as you think about it you get overwhelmed and it's over. So what I got out of making this movie was a high-speed line, with high bandwidth, in my connection to the strength and knowledge of what is clear and not clear inside of me. Sometimes it rubs people wrong because I'm not going to make a move until J-R says I can make a move.

So that brings us to right now. A lot of people want it on DVD, so we're working on the blu-ray. J-R said we're like Johnny Appleseed, just planting seeds to make the teachings available. If I could keep making movies about J-R I'd love it. We're showing the film at the film festival in Mar de Plata, Argentina. (We're showing the 2-hour version.) I want to interview more people, and there will be more on the blu-ray. I don't want to change the movie, but I can add bonus features to the DVD.

You just don't know who's going to be digging J-R. So we're getting subtitles in a lot of languages so people can see it all over the world—Polish, Japanese, Chinese, Farsi, Hebrew, Russian, Spanish, French, Arabic, Bulgarian. Some people from Abu Dhabi came to the London Premiere. They didn't understand all the language but they got J-R. So now we're doing Arabic subtitles. I meet people from different cultures and send them the movie and ask them what they think. I met these Chinese women at the Four Seasons in London and asked them to look at the movie with Chinese subtitles. They thought I was crazy, but they ended up loving it.

And I want to do more screenings. We do a J-R seminar marathon, and then do the movie, and you're thoroughly doused in J-R. I want to do screenings in San Francisco and South America.

DS: What's your hope for the movie?

JG: I've given up the idea of trying to make money on the movie. If that was the goal I'd be fired, and luckily J-R isn't requiring it. Someone told me that sometimes the movie is for that one person at that one time. There was this one man in London who rode the bus all the way from Scotland to see the movie, and he got on the bus right after it was over to go back to Edinburgh (about a 12 hour bus trip each way). I said, "The movie is for that guy." He was so into the movie, and as he left he said it was totally worth the trip. Inside I was like "Yeeeeeahh-hhh!!!" That's what you make the movie for—people like that. I'm hoping we can touch people like that. We can be jaded here in California, because we have so much of this stuff. But you can show this to someone who's thirsting for it and they go, "Oh my God."

People here say, "I've taken Insight, thank you." Well how about taking it again? Sometimes you have to get out of your comfort zone. I showed the movie to one famous guy, a friend of Oprah, and he said, "J-R gave me the answer that I needed for the book I'm writing. Thank you." That's all I need to hear. I don't need him to join MSIA. That's what J-R was always about—what key can he give that one person that would make that person go out and change himself, or change the world.

I love the early days, the hippie time, when everybody was sleeping on the ground, and working hard, and when there were fires and floods up at Mandeville everybody pitched in to help J-R. I learned that people follow J-R because of the love. That's what it was about. That's the great lesson for me—you always come back to the love.

A Medical Miracle Cultivating the Sweetness Within

BY Joelene Ashker, M.A., M.S.S.

It was a day just like any other—except when I woke up I found that my eyesight had radically changed overnight and I couldn't see beyond my hand. I was very confused by this and my first thought was that I needed a new contact lens prescription.

I went to my ophthalmologist, who adamantly told me that she wouldn't give me a new prescription unless I got a blood test for diabetes. I responded, "With all due respect to you doctor, I think you're crazy! This doesn't run in my family and I take great care of myself. I do all the right things: I eat healthy, meditate, live peacefully and I'm in DSS. Most of all, I love my life." However, in the end I decided to placate her and have it checked-out—mainly because I needed a new prescription.

And here my journey began. In May 2013 I was given a diagnosis of Diabetes Type I. I knew nothing whatsoever about this condition and I really didn't care to. I learned that my pancreas was working at a two-percent level of efficiency and was not producing insulin (a natural hormone we need to produce blood sugar efficiently and optimally), thus generating extremely high blood sugar levels in my body. Additionally, my doctor told me that if this had been detected six months later, God knows what condition I'd be in—if even alive. Keep in mind that up until this point I didn't go to doctors or take medication and I considered myself to be in excellent physical condition.

I'm grateful that I had a medical team of angels. My endocrinologist told me that she sees a record amount of women my age—in epidemic proportions, in fact—because of extremely high stress levels (and you won't find that in any medical journal).

For my own part, I considered the depression I experienced for decades and the stress in other areas of my life and wondered how they played a part in all this.

I asked my doctor to refer to this as my "condition" rather than as a disease, because I wasn't going to label this or own it as such. I wasn't in denial; I just knew it wouldn't serve me to take it on that way in my consciousness. Although I'm not sure she understood me, she respected my request. I asked her, "How long might it take for my pancreas to start working one-hundred percent again, and when can I stop checking my blood sugar five times a day?" She nicely said, "Joelene this is incurable. You will have this for the rest of your life. In my fourteen years of practicing medicine I've never seen a pancreas come back. It won't come back, and if you don't take insulin you'll die."

To which I said, "Watch me turn this around." She smiled. I said, "I'm serious. Just watch me turn this around." I spoke to other physicians I trusted and they concurred with her diagnosis and prognosis based on medical history and their experience.

This was the first time in my life I released twenty pounds without even trying. Of course, I was elated! Until I repeatedly heard that this is a condition in which the body goes into starvation mode. But how was I starving myself when I love to eat?

In retrospect, I can see the metaphors. For years I had lack, limitation and scarcity thinking. I was living in a city that wasn't nourishing to my soul and I was starving myself by living a smaller life than what I was capable of, rather than reaching for my much larger goals and full potential.

Living with diabetes was initially a radical life change. I was giving myself insulin shots before each meal, four times a day and before bedtime, checking my blood sugar five times a day and eating on demand. I also had to educate myself about the condition because it was foreign to me. At first I felt shocked, confused and angry. After all, I asked myself, with all the inner work I've done, how could this happen to me?!

My dear mother began scouring the web for information about all the side-effects and things that could go wrong for an individual with my condition, and I requested that she not share their discoveries with me. She didn't. For me it was like listening to or watching the news: why would I want to feed that wolf into my consciousness when I have the knowledge and education to stay conscious, clear and positive?

Instead I quickly went into inner-cooperation and acceptance of the situation, of "what is", and I gracefully adapted to my new lifestyle.

I saw this as an opportunity to take my self-mastery to the next level of excellence and impeccability by being very intentional and self-disciplined with my inner-work and by creating a whole new story for the next chapter of my life. I took every skill I could think of that I've learned over the years through John-Roger and John Morton's mastership and began to experiment with them, to put them to practical use—mentally, emotionally, physically and spiritually. These profound practices are now a part of my natural and daily routine, not something "extra" to do.

I also recommitted to this: I'm choosing to walk a master's path for myself at new levels of consciousness, vibrant health and wellbeing. I am choosing to walk my walk and talk my talk as an example for my coaching clients. I choose life!

For the first few months, when I gave myself insulin I visualized and blessed it as liquid love and light—something the body could naturally produce to survive, only mine simply needed help making it. Then I visualized the insulin going into my pancreas, and I imagined my pancreas functioning at one-hundred percent. I consistently supported, encouraged, and acknowledged my basic-self for doing a great job keeping my blood sugar in a particular range. I visualized those numbers. I listened to the Forgiveness, Luxor or Body Regeneration CDs nightly for clearing. I increased my prayer and Spiritual exercises, walked the Labyrinth, did freeform writing, practiced yoga four to five days a week, took PATIII, saw my Eastern medicine doctor and took a powerful nutraceutical to change my metabolism at the DNA and cellular levels, and it helped reduce my sugar. (I still do all these things.)

I listened to my intuition, which told me this was about "choosing life," and I recommitted to my life. I recognized there were three things keeping me in Los Angeles and that my heart was guiding me to be in Portland for a graceful, easier and greener life (even though I didn't know anyone and had never been there). A friend and medical intuitive asked me, "Joelene, where are you not following your heart?" I knew immediately this was the change I needed. No, craved. My time in Los Angeles was complete, for now.

Funny—this being said, the three attachments I thought were behind my continuing to stay in Los Angeles dropped out of my life within a week of this conversation. I recognized that all three were relationships I had outgrown and it was necessary to choose my self-respect and let them go. Ahh, what timing! Truly, Spirit in action!

When I was first diagnosed with diabetes I thought, "But food is my comfort! How will I get that now without the carbs and sugar that I love?!" The last piece of the puzzle, in addition to the actions described above, was that I radically changed the way I eat: no carbs or sugar whatsoever and only protein, veggies and a tiny bit of fruit.

Now, my sweetness comes from within and home is in my heart. I honor, respect and cherish my body temple. I lovingly talk with and encourage myself consistently and have a smile in my heart about myself. While I've practiced an attitude of gratitude for many years, there was still room for much more, especially given this experience. I continue to be an owner, creating and generating my experience, rather than being a victim of circumstances and a prisoner of my own mind and body.

Two months ago I went into my doctor's office. She referred to me as her "dream patient" because of my quick progress. I told her what I had been doing recently. I didn't, however, share with her the full depth of my inner-work and self-discipline because I didn't know if she would really appreciate it. I ended by saying, "And, I'm no longer taking the insulin because my numbers are so normal on their own."

She ran out of the room, came back in with a cup and said, "Here, go urinate in this, stat!" Then she ran back out. When she returned she said, "I had to go catch my breath. What the hell are you doing not taking your insulin? You could die!"

"Look at my numbers, Doctor," I said.

She did. Her mouth hung open in disbelief and she turned pale white. She looked at me and said, "Your numbers and blood work show that your pancreas is working at one-hundred percent efficiency. Your average glucose levels for the past few months went from very high 11.4, down to 5.5.

Your sugar levels are now normal. You don't need to take insulin. This is a medical miracle. This isn't possible. I've never seen it before. I have chills." Then she sat down silent and speechless.

My intention in sharing my experience is to offer hope, support, encouragement and inspiration to those who may read this. Most importantly, I wrote this to remind you that perhaps most anything is possible through your tremendous power within, through cultivating a deep and intimate relationship with yourself and God and keeping an open mind and heart.

I continue to cultivate the sweetness within daily and with profound gratitude for these teachings. I too have chills and am speechless—as I sit in my spacious and beautiful home in Portland, Oregon.

George Moore said, "We travel the world in search of what we need... then return home to find it."

A MYSTICAL BOOK EVENT WITH THE TRAVELER

BY ELIZABETH SPANTON AND LAREN BRIGHT

Mystic Journey Bookstore's event room was only sparsely filled at the starting time of the event on Saturday, October 12. But as Leigh Taylor-Young Morton welcomed the group, others began to slowly filter in. By the time John Morton finished his comments and brought forward a blessing on the book the room was filled with children and adults. It was as if John and Leigh's loving presence had acted as a magnet, beckoning everyone in.

The occasion was the official launch of Golden Voyages, a beautiful book for children and families, written by the writers of this article, Elizabeth Spanton with Laren Bright. The book takes readers along on the adventures of two young children who travel on a magical ship to meet with Wisdom Teachers through the ages.

John and Leigh made the event special with their presence. Leigh, who acted as MC, expressed that she had been deeply touched by the book as it reawakened her to her childlike innocence. John expressed his happiness in having an MSIA book for children that can be shared with friends. He emphasized the presence of the Traveler's energy in the book that has been charged and blessed by J-R. John also shared parental wisdom about the need for parents to read to children.

With his guitar, Matt Van Fossen played and sang The Wisdom Keeper Theme Song set to the melody of Beethoven's Ode to Joy. It was originally written for the children of the Wisdom Keeper Class that Elizabeth leads each month. It was the perfect way to open this event and bring in the joyful sound for all to sing.

Elizabeth expressed gratitude to John who, in a sharing at the MSIA Conference several years ago, had inspired her to write a children's book. She acknowledged Faern Montgomery for her magnificent artwork, and she thanked Marjorie Eaton for encouraging her by listening to her 20 practice stories and suggesting changes. She shared that it was her grandson, James and daughter Anna who suggested the idea of the Golden Ship and traveling back in time. And she gave a nod to Laren for putting "cinnamon and spice" into her story and for further developing the characters.

Elizabeth also used the occasion to teach, much as she does in her free children's classes at 2101 Wilshire.

She had designed a game that guided the children to understand the meaning of "Wisdom" and "Keeper" in order to win a prize. Wisdom is knowing from the heart. Keeper is action, like a zookeeper who tends and cares for his animals. She said that a Wisdom Keeper is awake to the truth that he is the Living Love. The children's answers were precious and deserving of the prize: a dog tag-like necklace with the words, "I Am A Wisdom Keeper."

One of the highlights of the event was young Gabriella Vahanian and James Hopton each reading an excerpt from the book. Everyone in the audience seemed to enjoy the story and the reading.

Laren said that he always saw the book as a family activity, with parents reading the stories to their children – or vice versa. He spoke to the parents saying that Elizabeth had the vision of presenting heroes to children – not the kind that catch bad guys, but those who demonstrate the power of living love. He recounted that in his career writing children's animated television cartoons he saw John-Roger's principle that action follows thought in a very real way. The way it translated for Laren was that what we can inspire the children to believe is what they will go out and create in the world. What better thing to believe in and create than love.

He invited support from the adults in the audience by requesting that if they liked the book, to please tell other families about it. With the first book covering Wisdom Teachers from Confucius and Pythagoras to St. Francis and Jesus, it was a very ecumenical book that anyone of any spiritual or religious belief could enjoy. And he reminded people that Christmas was coming soon, and the books make great Christmas presents.

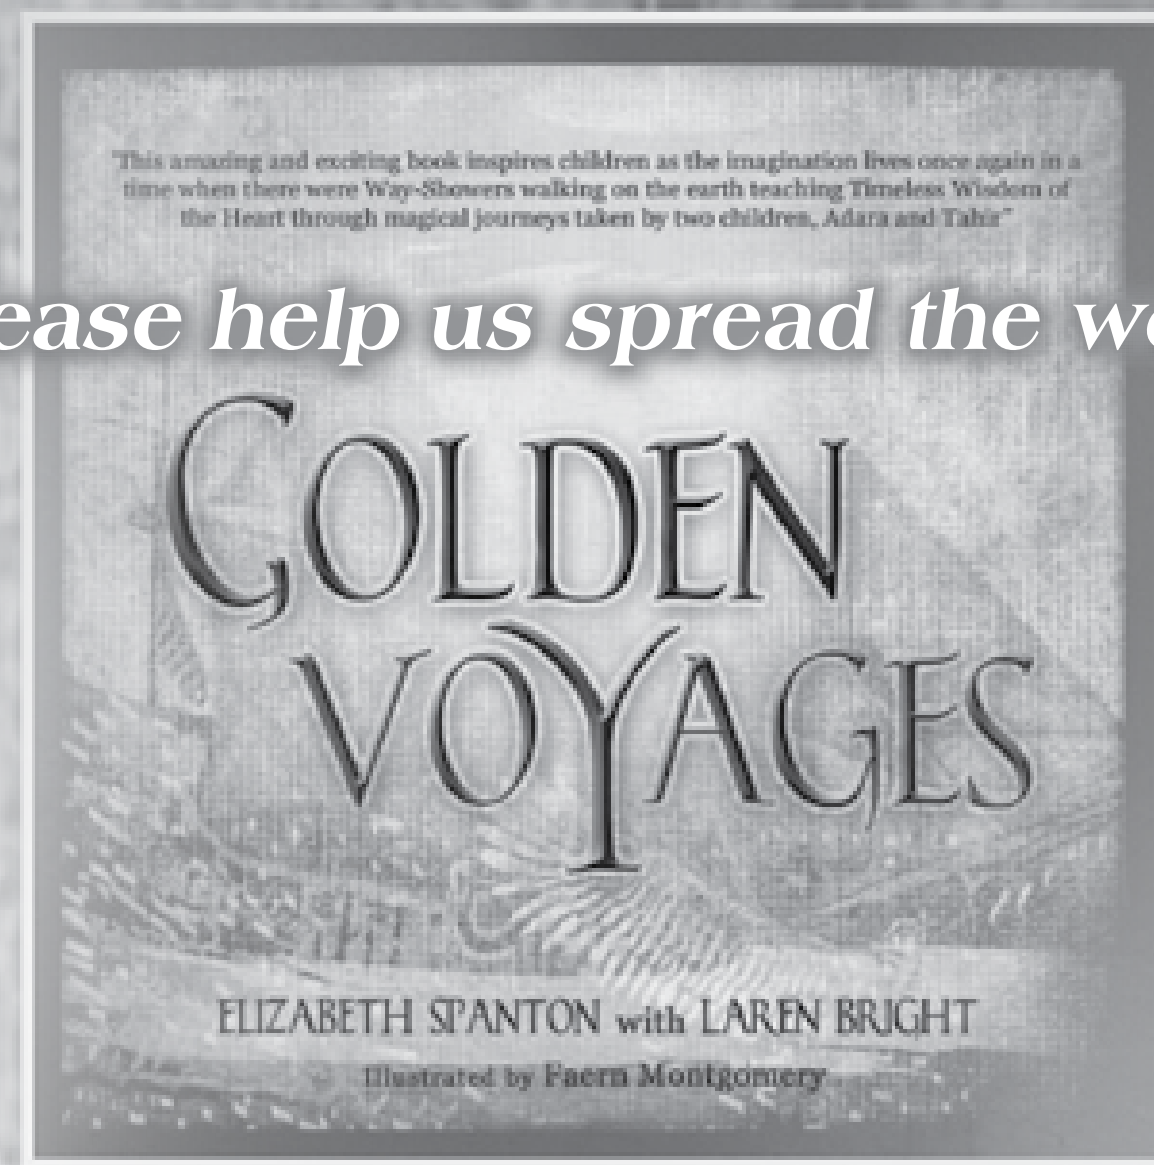

Leigh closed the presentation part of the event gracefully and graciously, and invited parents to buy the book. The audience enthusiastically responded, making the bookstore, Elizabeth and Laren very happy.

Homemade refreshments were enjoyed as books were signed and Elizabeth and Laren chatted with the children and parents.

We are so grateful for the Traveler's support, J-R and John's encouragement, and John and Leigh's generous participation with us. This whole event came about because John had told us that he was willing to participate to support this book, and, as he has demonstrated consistently, he, and Leigh, are doing that in spades.

The Golden Voyages book is available through the MSIA online store and through Amazon, or it can be ordered at any bookstore. We invite you to join us -- in whatever way you are moved to do so: sending Light, buying the book, "liking" the Golden Voyages Facebook page, telling your friends, sending out emails about it, etc. We are grateful for anything you can do to assist us in bringing wholesome, positive, and uplifting stories to children and families. We view this as Spirit's book, and we welcome your support as Spirit moves you.

Please help us spread the word about:

- Send the book the Light
- "Like" Golden Voyages on Facebook
- Tell your friends about it
- Mention it in your emailings or blogs
- Write a review on Amazon.com
- Ask for it in bookstores
- Give it to friends as gifts

The Spirit of the Traveler for Children

Imagine the future our children can create when we inspire them with stories that ignite in them the wisdom of Truth Teachers through the ages.

Golden Voyages is a wonderful read-along-with-your-kids book. It introduces young Tahir and Adara, and their pup Skipper, who embark on magical adventures to ancient lands where they encounter teachers of timeless truths. With them, children discover the mysterious Captain with his heart-melting smile and join in as he guides the kids on their quest to become Wisdom Keepers – those who live from the loving heart.

In this first book in the series, children are introduced to universal concepts at the feet of teachers like Confucius, Pythagoras, St. Francis and Jesus. Because the teaching are ecumenical and free of agenda, any child, whether in an MSIA family or not, can relate to the stories.

Richly illustrated, Golden Voyages can be enjoyed by children (and adults) of almost any age. It is a perfect holiday gift!

If you have been looking for a unique and fun approach to introducing wisdom teachings to children you care about, get a copy of Golden Voyages from the MSIA store, Amazon, or ask for it at your favorite bookstore.

Golden Voyages 'lit up' my imagination, and I experienced sweet delight in Spiritual adventure. I read it in one sitting, and was immersed, like the children in the story, in the discovery of my love for God, and all of the Travelers and their wisdom once again. My heart was so refreshed in simple joy and innocence.... For children of all ages.

– Leigh Taylor-Young Morton

Golden Voyages is an enchanting tale with a lovely attunement of the traveler consciousness

Facets of Loving A New Book about J-R

"How beautiful it is for me to see J-R through the author's eyes. I am grateful for these intimate, loving, caring, sweet, wise glimpses of our beloved J-R." (MR)

"Besides the content of the book being both so touching and so funny at times, I loved its clarity. . . Each story stood on its own value and brought up my engagement with inner stories of my own that I brought to the book." (PP)

"I love the anecdotes, which were so amusing, wise, and uplifting." (NF)

"The book held the perfect gems for me to read at this time in my life." (GM)

"I sat down and read it cover to cover and feel like it was such a blessing to me today. I'd been having quite a tough day with a lot of negativity coming up, and now I feel closer to the Traveler than ever." (VP)

"I've enjoyed so much dipping into your recollection of J-R's exemplarship through firsthand accounts of your experiences with him." (BB)

"I open the book at random and savor that page." (CJ)

"This book is so sweet and comforting." (HC)

MSIA Baptisms Around the World

by Marjorie Eaton

MSIA baptisms are very sacred experiences. During the baptism karma can be cleared from many lifetimes and various realms. At completion, a guardian angel is placed with the person being baptized. Baptisms are done in a body of water, such as a lake, a river, a large pond, or swimming pools. Sometimes candles are lit, or sacred music played, loved ones bring flowers, and sometimes the occasions are celebrated with a party!

If you have already read your 7th discourse, you are eligible to apply for baptism in the Church of MSIA. Just send your request to MSIA - by email eaton@msia.org or write to MSIA at PO Box 513935, Los Angeles, CA 90051.

We are honored to share a few of these sacred baptism occasions with you, from this summer.

Pictures from Adelaide, South Australia - There are 4 generations in the same family: Jennifer Jacobs baptized her mom, Margaret Jacobs, and her daughter, Kristin Dehaan on June 7, 2013. Jennifer writes: "Kristin found out she was pregnant just before the baptism, so we're looking at 4 generations in these baptism photos!"

Jennifer Jacobs the baptizer. Margaret Jacobs, her mother, Kristin Dehaan, Jennifer's daughter

Pictures from Port Harcourt, Rivers State - Nigeria. Prince Owahu, [who received Minister of the Year award for 2012], is baptizing Owabie Clement on Sunday, July 28th in these pictures.

Pictures from Windermere - Santa Barbara, CA. Kay Turbak baptized Javier Eduardo Vera in the Windermere pond on 7/19/13. Javier shares: "Before completion of the ceremony Kay, my baptizer and I planted Light columns with every step we took around the main pond. We opened our hearts to the blessings that were pouring abundantly. The water was warm and crystalline. Fountains cleansed our hands before we dipped into the water."

Pictures from Ankorage, Alaska Judy Pendleton baptized Anglea Chambers in Ankorage, Alaska on August 10th. They share their experiences:

Judy: "Spirit took charge. I was awed by the power I experienced, power beyond my own, going through my right arm and dunking Angela most completely and thoroughly under the water. I am blessed to have been able to serve in this way."

Angela: "I have never felt anything during any initiation, nor any service or seminar. Nor have I ever really felt moved right away—always just a change noticed over time. I only felt an internal need to be baptized. Not a desire, but a need. This is the first time I can say I felt completely moved. I felt the water rush through me, shocking my entire body, and came away with a feeling of complete dedication to God."

DIRECTORY OF

"The journey of your Soul is to return to an awareness of and a oneness with God."

MSIA

The MOVEMENT of SPIRITUAL INNER AWARENESS (MSIA) teaches Soul Transcendence, which is becoming aware of oneself as a Soul, and, more than that, as one with God. Soul Awareness Discourses are the heart of MSIA's teachings. They offer many practical keys to more successful living. Even more important, they offer keys to greater spiritual awareness and knowledge of the Soul. MSIA's approach is to present activities and techniques that direct us toward the Spirit and loving that are the essence of who we are, and to provide support for practicing those things if people choose to use them.

In MSIA we respect any approach that encourages people on their path home to God. We certainly don't claim to have the only way, but we do have a way that is assisting thousands of people to do this while experiencing greater health, happiness, abundance, and joy. The foundation of MSIA is loving, and it is in that spirit that we invite you to participate with us in whatever way works for you.

USM

USM was founded in 1976 by John-Roger and is a private graduate school offering Master's degrees in Spiritual Psychology and Spiritual Psychology with an Emphasis in Consciousness, Health, and Healing. Known as the Worldwide Center for the Study and Practice of Spiritual Psychology, USM's mission is communicating the principles and practices of Spiritual Psychology worldwide through the process of Soul-Centered education.

Soul-Centered education recognizes spiritual reality and begins with the assertion that rather than human beings who have a soul, we are more accurately described as souls having a human experience. This assertion evokes a radical paradigm shift, which results in a psychological and educational process whose goal is to bring forth the beauty, wisdom, and compassion inherent in every human being.

This experiential educational paradigm evokes in students their own answers to the three essential questions: Who am I?

Why am I here and what is my purpose?
How can I make a meaningful contribution in the world?

HEARTFELT

THE HEARTFELT FOUNDATION, founded in 1979 by John-Roger, is a volunteer-driven service organization which is operated through the Church of the Movement of Spiritual Inner Awareness (MSIA), a 501(c)3 nonprofit organization.

100% of donations received go to those we serve. Heartfelt's mission statement is: "Changing people's lives through the healing power of heartfelt service." People and the heart are a primary focus of our work, and volunteers are the key to our success.

The Foundation's service includes assisting at-risk and in-need families, providing support and services to disadvantaged or abused children, helping the homeless and comforting the sick. Thousands of people in need have been served by our loving volunteers.

An important part of Heartfelt's work is the HeartReach Program, which reaches out with food, medicine loving and caring hearts and Light support to members of our spiritual family who are undergoing life-challenging or medical crises. As a result of the short-term support that HeartReach is able to provide, people are cared for through difficult situations.

THE JOHN-ROGER LEGACY FUND

The John-Roger Legacy Fund within MSIA ensures that the teachings of the Mystical Traveler are available for many years to those who are looking for them. The Fund's prime objective is to continue to maintain the archives of J-R's spiritual work and to share it with the world, and to support MSIA, as necessary, as a conduit to maintain the availability of the Traveler's teachings and to preserve John-Roger's legacy.

How to Contribute to the John-Roger Legacy Fund

1. By Mail: Mail check or credit card number with dollar amount and indicate that your contribution is for the John-Roger Legacy Fund: MSIA, 3500 W. Adams Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90018
2. By phone: 323.737.4055 to donate by credit card.

INITIATION

If you are just starting the Soul Awareness Discourses, Discourse #1 explains initiation into the Sound Current. You may choose to study the Discourses with the intention to be initiated on this path, or to simply read them as information. If you do choose to study toward initiation, the Traveler works with you more closely, and you may notice a greater spiritual awareness in your own consciousness as this work goes on.

If you are studying toward initiation, you need to write and mail a letter to the Traveler that this is your intention. If you have written and mailed your intention to the Traveler, you can apply for initiation when you have completed Discourse 24.

THE MSIA MINISTRY

The MSIA ministry is for initiates of the Traveler who are called inwardly to serve the spirit of their hearts.

Service may be in any form, from volunteering for the Church to assisting people in need or organizations that serve those people, and anything in between. The only requirement is that the ministry is active and done regularly.

MSIA ministers may perform services, like marriages, that clergy of other denominations are authorized to do as long as they comply with the laws of the locality in which they serve.

People who have received initiation into the Sound Current through the Traveler may request an Application for Ordination packet from:

Ministerial Services In Action • 3500 W. Adams Blvd. • Los Angeles, CA 90018

WRITING TO J-R & JOHN

Sometimes people reading Discourses, especially those studying toward initiation, want to write to John Morton or John-Roger. Writing often helps you let go of a troubling situation and open more to the Traveler's assistance inwardly.

As soon as you write to John Morton or John-Roger, they get the message on the spiritual levels, and they do what Spirit allows. Then, to let go of the situation in your consciousness, you burn or mail your letter. Whether you burn or mail what you wrote, you may find that you get your answers on the inner levels, sometimes very quickly. You may also experience greater calm, clarity, or peace, which can help you go through whatever challenges you face.

We suggest that you place the situation in the Light, ask for clarification during s.e.'s, dreams, etc., and then look for the answers within you. Often reading a Discourse or listening to an MSIA tape (either at home or at a seminar) will provide keys to assist you in handling your situation. You can also refer to any of the numerous books by J-R and John to find information that relates to what you are dealing with. These two have shared so much with us over the years, and we encourage you to send your letters via e-mail, using these addresses:

For John-Roger: letterj-r@msia.org

For John Morton: letterjohnmorton@msia.org

If you live in the United States and if you send your letter to J-R or John in hard copy via the mail, you need to include a self-addressed stamped envelope (SASE) if you want a reply from either of them.

Many hundreds of people write personal letters each month to J-R and John, so please note that even if you do send a letter by e-mail or if you do send in an SASE with your letter, you may not receive a response back. This does not imply that your concern is not important or that you are being ignored. There simply may be no need for a physical reply, or there may be no answer available to you at the time you write.

In addition to the e-mail addresses above, mail to John Morton or John-Roger can be sent to:

MSIA • P.O. Box 513935 • Los Angeles, CA 90051-1935

“You see, God created us and He didn’t use any junk to do it. Sometimes you want to take who you are as a creative being and make junk, thinking that’s going to be acceptable. At the level we are working in this PTS doctoral program, I want to be clear with you that it’s not. The thing we’re on the planet to learn is discipline toward God’s direction. That discipline is not a punishment. It’s joy. And it’s a real thankful thing to have.”

The Balagu Kasim MSIA Wedding

Beloved.

The Balagu Kasim MSIA wedding that took place in Daa-Jofad Suites at 13 Jibayo Street Ibadan Nigeria on Saturday 4th May 2013 was really a historic event as the MSIA ministers crew were there to grease and solemnize the marriage according to the MSIA ministerial dictate of unconditional loving. I was really filled with joy and excited at having the opportunity to officiate the marriage blessing. The Traveler's energy and presence felt during the occasion was joyful and overwhelming as the couples and all the participants were filled with joy! Joy! All through the blessings, as we had the privilege to make the teachings available in Ibadan the Uyo State Capital of Nigeria.

We also had to stay back to hold the light for the traditional aspect of the marriage and it was also smooth, lively and spirit-filled. I want to thank all of you that have held the Light for the success of this great event especially the Travelers who off-course spiritual participated the entire occasion.

Update on IIWP Peace Events for the International Day of Peace

By Debbie Roth, IIWP Coordinator

Communities around the world hosted 20 IIWP peace events to celebrate this year's International Day of Peace. The Day of Peace itself is on September 21 of each year, designated by the UN in 1982 to support individuals, communities, & organizations in promoting peace.

Eleven countries were represented, including Argentina, Australia, Colombia, England, France, Ghana, Nigeria, Switzerland, United States, Uruguay and Venezuela. In the United States, peacemakers offered events in eight states: Alabama, California, Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Texas, and Washington.

We rejoiced to know that many on this planet were participating!!! Blessings of Love Light and Sound to all and All, etc...

PRINCE Iwuoha, PORT HARCOURT, NIGERIA
#1 FINDING PEACE IN TODAY'S WORLD
PORT HARCOURT, NIGERIA

Thank God! The (IIWP) class, 'Finding Peace in Today's World' held in Port Harcourt, Rivers State Nigeria on Saturday 21st September (which of course is a peace day) was a great success. The Travelers students gathered on a beautiful day to celebrate and share their love and light on the UN programmed day of peace via the peace class, the joy! joy!! Radiance from the faces of the participants was a clear manifestation of inner peace awakened by the IIWP class discourse.

The opportunity of holding this class in Nigeria and indeed Africa is wonderful and a great gift of love and peace from the Travelers to humanity as those who embrace the profound message from this simple class will never lack peace. The golden keys presented by the Travelers via this class will always remain indelible in the hearts of IIWP class participants.

Communities held activities as simple as a group coming together to plant Light columns in Australia, Switzerland, and Seattle WA to planting a tree for peace in Caracas Venezuela.

Also, a number of communities offered IIWP's Peacemaker Meeting and Finding Peace in Today's World workshops. This includes three events in Africa with our Beloved IIWP Peacemaker Prince Iwuoha.

It's a generational and progressive peace seed for all times. The choice of peace has always been the choice of the saints and will always be the way out and the way forward for all mankind, and we pledge to flow in that line.

#2 PEACEMAKER MTG, ABUJA, NIGERIA

Thank God, the Abuja PeaceMaker Meeting held on the 29th September 2013 was a great success.

The Uniqueness of the PeaceMaker Meeting cannot be overemphasized as it has the capability of turning the participants to full blown peacemakers and as well turning the environment of the event into a peaceful domain with its high peaceful vibratory frequencies that flow from the Travelers via the class.

We appreciate, and we are so happy for the gift of love. We want to use this opportunity to thank all those who have made it possible for us to enjoy this class. LL -Prince Iwuoha

HIGHLIGHTS FROM COMMUNITIES ON THEIR PEACE EVENTS

VERONIQUE SANDOZ, PLANTING LIGHT COLUMNS

We were four. We were all surprised by the powerful energy present as we were moving from spot to spot in Geneva, and also by the creative inspiration which was downloaded through each blessing said by each of us. We realized that we are creators and decided to walk like this in the city more often.

ANNE NAVLOR, FRANCE
SUNRISE PEACE CHANT

We were 3, all old timer chanters.

The chant was very gentle and yet powerful. Bright sunshine greeted us as we chanted. Breakfast was yummy. Shone brought croissants etc, and Annie brought strawberries and raspberries. There was a great peace with us.

I learned that it is always sharing peace, plus I liked that we held it on 9/11 - a great day to focus on peace.

The event came together at the last moment as I was about to go away and was perfect.

LAURIE JONES, SEATTLE, WASHINGTON
LOVE, LIGHT, LUNCH - PLANTING LIGHT COLUMNS AND ENVISIONING PEACE

Five light workers met at Bellevue Downtown Park in Bellevue WA on a sunny 70 degree day.

We called in the light, planted light columns and sent peace to all citizens of the world. And we wished our beloved John Roger a happy birthday!

KAREN ZULUAGA JIMENEZ, BOGOTA COLOMBIA
PEACEMAKER MEETING

I'm happy to bring to you some good news about our meeting for the International Day for Peace.

The day was beautiful, people who came to the meeting were open, and every of them shared in such a profound way. I was amazed with by spirit present... everything came in a divine way.

So thanks for all the light, because I really felt that the way was prepared.

I'm sending some pictures for you to enjoy. (We did part of the Meeting around the Peace Tree we planted in June!)

BELINDA BACK, BRISBANE AUSTRALIA
PLANTING LIGHT COLUMNS

We only had three people but it was great fun and so filled with Spirit. I was initially disappointed more didn't join us but then I know that it is all perfect and there is purpose in whatever is going on.

We started at the Princess Alexander hospital to do a Light column outside the Mental Health building.

At the end, after we planted the third one, we surrounded them in a circle of blessings. Each person gave from their heart a quality of peace as a blessing for the trees, to go through their roots to the center of mother earth and through their leaves to scatter those qualities on the earth. Then we all gathered around the last tree for a group photo, everyone laughed, we had lots of fun and enjoyed a day full of Peace.

ALETHEA LAMB, LOS ANGELES, CA
PEACEMAKER MEETING

It went really well. We had a total of 12 participants, and 8 of them were new!! 6 participants were there from the beginning, and then 6 more joined after the meeting started.

Vania Grimalt was totally amazing as a facilitator! And Joseph Casan and Michea Caye offered some back up support with set up. From what I heard, the participants really loved it, and there were several people who stayed afterwards for about an hour chatting with each other in the dining room at Prana.

Thanks again to Vania for her beautiful service.

LIN MOGITZ, BRANCHBURG, NEW JERSEY
PEACEMAKER MEETING

Our "event" was simply our Peacemaker Meeting, and it was lovely, as usual. :)

Loving, Light, hugs and peace, Lin

JULIANA POMBO & DIEGO FORERO, CALI, COLOMBIA: THE PEACE IN OUR HEARTS

The Peace event here in Cali was beautiful!! Full of Peace and Light.

We did not have a lot of people present but it was a perfect family-like gathering with 7 people.

I could not take pictures (even though I tried) because Diego and I were standing talking and participating in the activities so I didn't find the moment.

Big hug from Diego and me.

FROM ROBERT MCCREIGHT, AUSTIN, TEXAS: SUNRISE CHANTING & PRAYERS FOR PEACE

Lois Stuart and I were there at sunrise for the Austin event at Barton Springs Pool.

There were also others there nearby who were swimming that morning. At the event we read some quotes from J-R's book, Loving Each Day for Peacemakers. One quote in particular resonated with me and I paraphrase it: Peace is the cessation of againstness.

To me Barton Springs Pool is Austin's version of the Garden of Eden.

On that Saturday morning, I experienced myself moving so gracefully into a deeper level of accepting what is: letting go of the judgments about how many attended; letting go of the judgments of the murky conditions of the water due to heavy rains the previous day; and letting go of the judgments regarding the overcast skies.

In what seemed to be imperfect conditions, by letting go of the judgments and accepting what is, I discovered signs of God's beauty. I consciously chose peace.

It was so clear from the minute I received the invitation that I was being called to spearhead an Austin event and what that event was to be.

Through the process, I simply followed Spirit's guidance, accepting what is and, in that acceptance, discovering within, regardless of the outer, the Peace of God.

SINA SKATES, BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA
PEACEMAKER MEETING

As you may remember I traveled to Boston to visit my 97 year old Grandmother and was not able to host the Peacemaker Meeting at my house. I did however talk to her about the Peacemaker Meeting, the Peace Prayer and the four key IIWP concepts of peace. It was very, very sweet. She did not really have the energy for a whole "meeting" but I was definitely present in the peace with her and she loved the key concept that "peace is a choice". She said, "I've never heard that before, but you're right. It is a choice."

FROM REBECCA BLOOMFIELD, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS
PEACEMAKER MEETING

There is an agreement of gratitude among attendees. They are grateful they can bundle up all the upset that is broadcast in the world and that they create for themselves, and that they have a place to "unload" it. They report that through the process of the meeting they feel unburdened, peaceful, and able to hold a space of peace in the world. It is joyous.

(Continuing)

After the hospital we went to Southbank on the west side of the Brisbane river. It is a beautiful public area with a theatrical venue, restaurants, cafes, rain-forest, lots of green, and a man-made beach where people from all walks of life gather, especially on the weekend. And as the Brisbane festival was on, more people than usual because of all the activities, which is why we chose to go there.

A lot of people were milling in and around the Pagoda when we arrived there. Inside we called in the Light and chanted Ani-Hu. and then did s.e.'s for 5 to 10 minutes. The energy was beautiful and it was extraordinary how peace descended on the temple and surroundings. People, including kids, just quieted.

We also planted a couple of other Light columns in the area.

Holding the Light column day was so grace-filled for me. The loving inside and out so palpable I don't think anything could have fazed me that day. That the Light descends in support when you put your hand up to serve, I have no doubt. What did I learn? That serving is truly a gift always.

This year I hesitated doing the Light columns. Next time, if no other event is organised I will put my hand up straight away.

VANIA GRIMALT, CARACAS VENEZUELA: PLANTING A TREE FOR PEACE

September 1, the beginning of a new month, the month dedicated to peace by the United Nations. For me Peace is always a reason to celebrate!

The Venezuela IIWP Community planted a tree for Peace in Caracas, to honor this day. We started around 5pm, About 20 people came to participate. Someone even brought cupcakes, and also two more trees!! So there were three trees to plant to honor Peace.

People passed by where we were planting the trees and wondered what we were doing, so we invited them to find peace within themselves and spread through the world, because "Peace is Present". (You could read this on the stone that we had.) We delivered information about IIWP to all who asked.

When we finished selecting the right spot for the first tree and planting it, we celebrated eating cupcakes, and we took a group photo with the first tree. Then the second was a tree of lemons, to give lemons to make Peaceful lemonade for life. This was brought from Maturin, an inland city in the country.
